Can you post the whole story about Joe in the Saint Paul Illustrated on your site? Or is there a way to purchase the magazine? Thanks!

Reply: Hi Melissa- Thanks for your question. I haven't laid my hands on a copy of the Saint Paul Illustrated yet. It is not available over the internet at this time. If I can get someone to transcribe it to a file I would be happy to post it but doubt I'll have time in the next couple weeks to get that done.

Here is the publishers info if you'd like to get a copy:

As a huge Twin's fan, I am looking for a video or book of a "look back on the 2005 season". Do you know where I would find one? Or does one even exist? I watched a documentary type thing on Comcast about the White Sox and I thought it would be neat to watch one on the twins. Also, I liked watching "miked up" during the season. Is there a dvd of that for sale anywhere? Thanks for your help!

If anyone can answer Lea's question please email me at marty@joemauerfanclub.com and I'll pass it on!

My hero is my twin sister, Ashley. She is my best friend and she is always there for me. We just turned 16 on November 4th. Ashley's favorite player is Joe Mauer. Is there anyway she could get to meet him? It would be the best birthday present ever. Thanks. Alyssa

11/11/05 Recently on the Joe Mauer Fan Club Yahoo! Group we asked: "If I could ask Joe" and here were some of the questions:

Who is your favorite Twins pitcher to catch and why? -Marty

What is the most interesting player he has talked to in the battersbox. (Remember Deion Sanders and Carlton Fisk). -Greg

How do you enjoy your off time? Do you vacation or enjoy most of your time hanging at home? -Alexis

What song might we be surprised to find on your IPOD? -Marty

If i could ask Joe one question it would prolly be can i have a hug or shake ure hand or something..haha...i luv this guy..i cut out pics. from the paper and internet. and read about him ALL the time. i dont really think ill get to meet him either since im not over 18 (wont give out real age) well thanx for sending this around...its fun to read! -skuzy

11/11/05 Here's a question I got through my e-mail from Corey:

Can you recommend -or- Do you have any particular place and or camps to send youth baseball players in the age group 9-12 years old? I traveled to Arizona and went to the Diamondbacks camp, it was a lot of fun -Corey

I already miss baseball! One of my favorite things to do was watch the Twins play on FSNN! What will Joe be up to in the off-season? And where can you keep up on the latest Twin's news?

Reply: Hi Melissa- I'm not sure of Joe's exact plans for the off-season but I do know this. He owns a home in Florida so some time will be spent there. He'll most likely be at Twinsfest which is just 94 days away. (But who's counting?) To keep up to date with the Twins you can check www.twinsbaseball.com or join us on our Yahoo group at <http://sports.groups.yahoo.com/group/joemauerfanclub/>. -Marty

I was just wondering if you know where I could find a schedule for the Twins spring training 2006? I have been watching the website and have not seen anything posted yet. I will be a first timer there- any suggestions? Anything helps.

Reply: The Twins have not yet released a Spring Training schedule. Are you a little excited about your first time to Spring Training? Me too! With any luck I'll see you down there! Here are a few ways to get the schedule when it's released. 1. Go to www.twinsbaseball.com and sign up for updates from the Twins. 2. Sign up for the Joe Mauer Fan Club Yahoo group (link below) and you will get in on the messages and emails when things are released like this. Or 3. Check www.JoeMauerFanClub.com and click the "2006 schedule" link which will soon be filled in with Spring training dates for ALL teams as they are released. Hope that helps! -Marty

I met Joe last night and he was so nice and down to earth. It was my bday and he signed my jersey and took a picture with me. Joe is such a great ball player. I have been watching the Twins since I was a very little girl and I am a huge fan. Joe is such an asset to the team. Such a great player for his age. I would love to talk with him again. I was so nervous last night.

JOE, MY SON IS A HUGE FAN, WE ARE COMING TO THE GAME THE 18TH SEP. SITTING 8 ROWS UP FROM THE DUGOUT. PLEASE STOP BY AND VISIT. WE'LL BE THERE EARLY. STEVE AND JOSH

Reply: Hi Steve- Thank you for the message through the Joe Mauer Fan Club Website. This is Marty the club president. Unfortunately I do not have any way to pass this along to Joe since our contact is very limited. I will post the message to the website but I can't promise that Joe will read it before the 18th. You mentioned that you will be there early. Possibly you could catch Joe going in "the tunnel" near gate A before the game. He usually arrives 3.5 to 4 hours before gametime. Catching him after the game at the same location will be harder since he'll be going to the airport to catch his flight out to Oakland. If you are interested in joining the fan club it is free and we can arrange something. Your son might enjoy the free Mauer rookie card in the packet and the certificate signed by Joe. My contact info is below including my cell which I always have with me at the games. Is this your sons first visit to the Metrodome for a Twins game? -Marty

I have a radio show on the Northwestern College campus radio station WVOE, and I was wondering if you think that Joe would be interested coming on my show and doing a 20-30 minute phone/studio interview sometime. I know the station would love to have him...as well as the students. We're all big Twins fans!

Reply: Hi Melissa- You'd have a great time interviewing Joe, I'm sure! I think the best way to get an interview might be to go through the Twins media office. I'm pretty sure your contact would be Molly Gallatin. You can email her at mollygallatin@twinsbaseball.com and if she is not the correct person to talk to, ask her who it is. Here is a link to the Front Office Directory. Hope that helps! If you get an interview I'd like a written transcript or a tape! -Marty

9/3/05 I was at the game tonight (vs. Indians) and had an awesome time! Unfortunately I won't be able to get that interview with Joe, the person in charge said they won't schedule them for colleges. Oh well. But Joe waved at us during warm up and then stopped for a picture after the game! He is so modest and respectful... it's so cool to know that the fame hasn't gone to his head!

Hey! I found your website when I was searching for info on Joe. I discovered him one day while watching ESPN at the gym. Now I'm a huge fan. It has a lot to do with the fact that he is amazingly attractive, but also seems like a class act guy. I am wondering if you know how I might get a Joe Mauer jersey, or shirt? Thanks!

Reply: Hi Kelly-

Yea, he's a class act.. we're very proud of him! The girls swoon every time he comes to the plate. Step aside Derek Jeter, there's a new kid in town. ;)

You can get a Mauer jersey in a number of ways.

1. Go online to Twinsbaseball.com and search for Joe Mauer under Jerseys.
2. Call the Twins Pro Shops: Apple Valley: 952-891-2934 Map | Minnetonka: 952-546-0815 Map | Roseville: 651-635-0777 Map

Joe played an AMAZING game last night!!! It kept me at the edge of my seat the WHOLE NIGHT!!

Reply: He sure did Sarah! He had 4 hits last night including 2 doubles and 3 rbi's that gave us a chance to go extra innings! His .299 batting average is the best on the Twins club. Did you know that there were only 10 games this year where his average dropped under .290 and 6 of them were in April. Impressive... to say the least. -Marty

A Joe Mauer story: I had just gone through the Mauer autograph line on the Friday night of the 2004 Twinsfest when a reporter from ESPN The Magazine approached me and asked about the huge duffel bag overflowing with various items I brought for Joe to sign. Never in my wildest dreams did I imagine that interview would appear in the "Right At Home" story about Joe in the March 1, 2004 issue of the magazine. Joe autographed a copy of the article for me at Twinsfest 2005. Quite a thrill for an incurable Mauer fan!!

01/09/05 Bladesgal21 - Fort Myers, FL (from the Yahoo! group Joe Mauer Fan Club):

He was down here (Fort Myers) last year on rehab playing GCL games. We're sitting at the Miracle game one night and my friend Aaron says "Is that Joe, over there by the bullpen." I look over and nearly laughed as he had glasses on and I'd never seen him wear glasses before. I'm like "Hey Mauer! What's that on your face?" He tries to look innocent. "You think no one's gonna recognize you with those on?"

About two minutes later Sean comes over the public address speaker and says "Yes Miracle fans! That is Joe Mauer standing over by the Miracle bullpen."

The next thing you know, this wave of kids comes rushing over to the platform, trying to get his autograph. And of course this gets the bullpen all riled up and they're teasing him.

Poor guy. Couldn't even watch a baseball game in peace. Heh!

Six more weeks until spring training.....
